Willie Wideman-Pleasants announces her latest book release, *Stretching the Truth

Willie Wideman-Pleasants is an author, poet, producer, speaker and cable show host

Her books are conversational, easy-reads for the hurry up world. Each book is comprised of educational, entertaining, uplifting, and thought-provoking short stories and poems. Her main goal is to encourage reading and inspire with her spoken word.

She is the producer and host of her own Boston Neighborhood Network (BNN) cable television show called "Willie's Web." She interviews other authors and artists to share their journey.

As a volunteer Team Leader for a program called Jumpstart, she inspires three and four-year-old children to help build crucial learning skills.

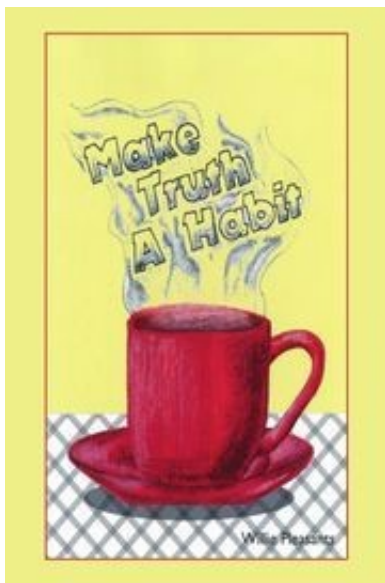

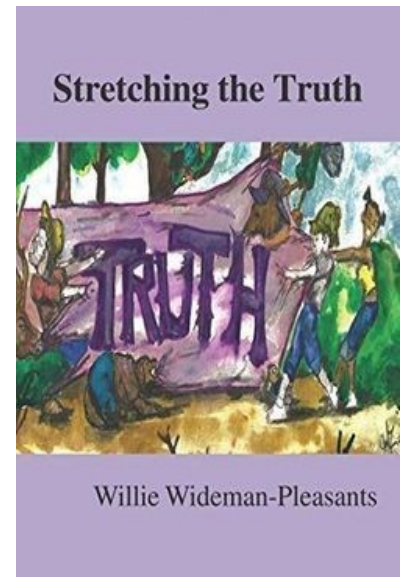

As a facilitator for the Olli program at the University of Mass, Boston, she uses her books in her class, "Story telling at Tea." The goal is to inspire new readers.
